Course Description
Much has been written and said about the link between democracy and development, religious and ethnic fragmentation. When India gained independence from British Rule in 1947, observers noted that the likelihood of the new country remaining democratic was limited. Yet, India proved such observers wrong and remained one of the world’s most thriving democracies for over 60 years, and, in doing so offered a puzzle for many political scientists.

How did a country with hundreds of social, economic, ethnic and linguistic cleavages manage to remain democratic, when other countries with lesser amounts of such diversity were collapsing? How did a country with the world’s largest poor population and slow rates of development consolidate a democracy? How did India with a history of social discrimination against former untouchables (now called dalits) and women implement corrective mechanisms to improve the conditions of marginalized groups and give them political representation and voice.

Of course, none of this history has been perfect. However, with every political tension that arose, the Indian state also responded in different ways. Sometimes it repressed its people; sometimes it created new mechanisms and institutions to channel dissent. But the 'system' endured for six and a half decades.

In this course you will engage in a deep, historical institutional analysis about the conditions that have allowed the Indian state to remain democratic. To explain Indian democracy we will look at various institutional mechanisms, elite bargaining, and the deployment of force, accommodation of regional leaders and their political aspirations, economic development and the constant reconfiguration of caste, party and religious alliances.

Course Objectives
Upon successful completion of this course, you will be able to:

- describe and explain how institutions are set up to govern deeply diverse societies
- analyze the transformation of caste and assess the impact of democratic institutions on caste
- explore the interaction between democratic institutions and India's varied religious interests
- analyze the role of tribes in insurgencies and armed conflicts
- analyze the impact of centralization of power in the separatist and secessionist movements
- recognize political parties and evaluate how party politics and elections create and impact
India's democratic institutions

Textbook & Materials
Edward Luce, 2008. In Spite of the Gods: The Rise of Modern India

- Video lectures and PowerPoint slides in each module
- Readings are provided in each module (PDF files)
- Additional videos and other materials as provided by the instructor.

Learning Activities
You are expected to fully participate in all the course activities described here.
VERY IMPORTANT

You won't be able to access your course material until you read and make your pledge to Academic Integrity. Click the button below to navigate to and complete the Academic Integrity pledge, found in the Academic Integrity module.

[Academic Integrity module]

Readings
Each module includes assigned readings relevant to each topic covered in that module. You will find links to PDFs on the Learning Activities page for each module.

Multimedia Lectures
Each module includes multiple video lectures/conversations by Dr. Chhibber and other experts in the various topics of the course, as well as PowerPoint slides, which you can open either as PDFs or as presentations. You will also be able to download MP3 files of the video lectures. In order to make the most of the material, start by doing the readings, then watch the video lectures and interviews and use the slides as highlights. Take notes as needed while viewing the lectures, and write down any questions that these conversations raise for you. You can use the Questions & Answers forum in the course to post your questions and discuss them with your classmates.

Quizzes
Most modules includes a quiz that must be completed and submitted within 48 hours of the completion of the module. Refer to the calendar for all due dates. You may take the quiz only once and have a set period of time to complete each quiz. (See each quiz for details.) Late submission and inability to complete a quiz will lead to one-third of a grade being docked and/or the quiz score and grade being dropped from the final grade assessment.

Op-Ed Response Project
We will provide you with a number of op-eds written by academics who are responding to one another’s ideas. After reading the entire dialogue, your assignment will be to write an additional op-ed in which you respond to the arguments made by the other authors and develop your own ideas on the topic. This assignment will be due on July 25th by midnight PST. You will receive your grade on this project, as well as comments, in time to allow you to prepare for the final exam.

Discussions
During the first portion of each module you will be responsible for submitting a single, thoughtful question that occurs to you as you go through the materials. We will read all submitted questions and select the five best (most thoughtful and interesting) questions from among them. We will then post these questions on the course website and you will be responsible for trying to answer one of them for most modules. (See schedule below for details.) You will be graded on the quality of your contribution, both in terms of your question and your response to the posted questions. In terms of the 20% of your grade that stems from discussion, half will be assigned based upon the quality of the questions you ask and the remaining half will be based upon our assessment of the responses you provide to the posted questions.

Questions and Answers Forum

Please use this forum to post questions about the course material, assignments, the learning management system or online homework. The instructor/GSIs will monitor this forum, but you should also feel free to post answers to help other students. This helps to create a general FAQ so that all students in the course may benefit from the exchange.

Final Exam

This course includes a 3-hour, in-person final exam. The exam format will reflect that of the quizzes and will include both essay and multiple choice questions. You must pass the final exam with a score of at least 60% to pass the course. The final exam will take place on Wednesday, August 13th from 9 am to 12 pm, 141 McCone Hall on the Berkeley campus.

If you will not be on campus for the final, it might be possible to take a proctored final off campus. Review the Proctor Info on the left navigation menu. Proctor applications are due by July 18th, 2014.

If you cannot attend the final on campus, you must make arrangements to take a proctored version of the exam at least four weeks before the final exam date.

Our course grade will be calculated as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>

Policies

Late Work
One-third of a grade will be docked for every day an assignment is late. All due dates and times are given in Pacific Daylight Time (PDT).

Students with Disabilities

Any students requiring course accommodations due to a physical, emotional, or learning disability must contact UC Berkeley’s Disabled Students' Program (DSP), http://dsp.berkeley.edu/services.html. The DSP will review all requests on an individual basis. Please have your Disabled Student Program Specialist send the instructor a formal request BEFORE the course start date by email. In addition, inform the instructor, your GSI and Online Program Coordinator prior to the course start date.
Collaboration and Independence
Reviewing lecture and reading materials and studying for exams can be enjoyable and enriching things to do with fellow students. This is recommended. However, unless otherwise instructed, homework assignments are to be completed independently and materials submitted as homework should be the result of one’s own independent work.

Cheating
A good lifetime strategy is always to act in such a way that no one would ever imagine that you would even consider cheating. Anyone caught cheating on a quiz or exam in this course will receive a failing grade in the course and will also be reported to the University Center for Student Conduct. In order to guarantee that you are not suspected of cheating, please keep your eyes on your own materials and do not converse with others during the quizzes and exams.

Plagiarism
To copy text or ideas from another source without appropriate reference is plagiarism and will result in a failing grade for your assignment and usually further disciplinary action. For additional information on plagiarism and how to avoid it, see, for example: http://www.lib.berkeley.edu/instruct/guides/citations.html#Plagiarism http://gsi.berkeley.edu/teachingguide/misconduct/prevent-plag.html

Academic Integrity and Ethics
Cheating on exams and plagiarism are two common examples of dishonest, unethical behavior. Honesty and integrity are of great importance in all facets of life. They help to build a sense of self-confidence, and are key to building trust within relationships, whether personal or professional. There is no tolerance for dishonesty in the academic world, for it undermines what we are dedicated to doing - furthering knowledge for the benefit of humanity.

End of Course Evaluation
Before your course end date, please take a few minutes to participate in our End of Course Evaluation to share your opinions about this course. The evaluation does not request any personal information, and your responses will remain strictly confidential. You may only take the evaluation once.
